'round town

with Betty Allen...

Just learned that we have a successful inventor here. He's John D. Ryan, who, together with Arvid M. Erickson of San Jose, has perfected a new and improved method for the extraction and processing of a sweetening medium from fruits by which a very high proportion of the sugars originally present are retained. These are in a highly purified state, made available in the form of a thick syrup, or, by further concentration, in crystalline form. The invention is adapted to a wide variety of fruits and has been assigned to the Barron-Gray Packing Co., San Jose.

Hope that everyone knows the Chamber of Commerce now has more than 100 members—101 to be exact. If you haven't joined yet, it would be a good idea to get on the band wagon now.

Pay no attention to that warm weather you've been noticing this week—summer doesn't officially begin until Sunday!

Our abject apologies to all the people who tried to call up The Press office yesterday only to have the receiver banged in their ears. The telephone was out of order and the caller could not be heard.

All the Campbellites who remember Dr. and Mrs. Frank R. Anderson will be intersted to know that they are now grandparents. A son, Mark Alexander, was born to their son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs. Benjamin G. Lewis, in Los Angeles.

The same "old-timers" will be sorry to learn of the death yesterday of Mrs. William G. Schaffer of San Jose and Almaden. She was the last of the older generation of Yeagers, a well-known family in the valley. Dan Yeager, her nephew, reports that arrangements for the funeral have not yet been completed.

Junior Hardball Games Saturday

In the only game played in the Junior Hardball league last Saturday, Gilpatrick and Standish eked out a close win over the first round champions, Cambrian Hardware. In a see-saw battle which saw the score tied going into the last inning, the Lumbermen aided by a resounding home run, pushed over two runs in their half to win 9-7.

Carlo Boncore, pitching his first game, did a fine job. and was responsible for driving in the winning runs with his home run. Joe Williams for the winners also starred at bat with a single, a double and a home run.

The battery for Cambrian Hardware worked well but lacked their usual strong support. Sonny Wolters and Don Mason pitched and caught for the losers.

In the Midget league another close game was played with the Lucky Strikers coming out in front by a 5-4 margin. A slight complication held up the finish of this game when it was discovered that a couple of players had gone home early and taken the ball with them, which incidently wasn't their ball at all.

This Saturday's games find the following teams meeting:

Junior league: 9 a.m. Hodges vs. Farley; Jones vs. Cambrian No. 2; 10:30, Gilpatrick-Standish vs. Campbell Taxi, Campbell Hdw. vs. Cambrian Hdw.

Midget league: 9 a.m., Lucky Strikers vs. Tigers; Lions vs. Oaks.

Community Dance Clears $500 For Recreation Program In Campbell

Campbell's first endeavor in the new recreation program netted $500. Arthur Tindall, recreation director, reported that after all expenses were deducted, approximately $500 resulted from last Saturday night's dance.

In addition to the financial success of the affair, committee members report a more intangible result—that of a group of people enjoying themselves in a common endeavor. Since the dance was such a success and so many people reported an excellent time, the Coordinating Council, under whose sponsorship the dance was given, is planning at least two more for the summer months.

Music was furnished by Benny Glassman's ten-piece orchestra and interest centered during intermision in the many door prizes given by local merchants. These ranged from baskets of groceries to merchandise orders.

On the committee arranging the affair were Arthur Tindall, Mrs. Louise Tordt, Mrs. Ray Gilpatrick, Mrs. Gene Hodges, Mrs. Harold Drummond and Robert Raker who served as master of ceremonies.

Proceeds of the dance will be used by the Coordinating Council for recreation expenses.

McMonigle Gets Stay Of Execution

Thomas H. McMonigle, convicted slayer of 15-year-old Thora Chamberlain, Campbell Union High school student, has received a stay of execution for 90 days. He was scheduled to die in San Quentin's gas chamber tomorrow for the kidnapping and killing which occurred a year ago last fall.

The Chamberlain girl's body was never found and McMonigle told numerous conflicting stories as to its whereabouts. Most commonly accepted is the one that he threw the body off Devil's Slide into the ocean on the San Mateo coast line.

McMonigle's petition which was accepted by the California Supreme Court accused agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation of detaining him "seven or eight days incommunicado" and of beating him. He also charged that the trial court tolerated "constant gun fire" directly outside the courtroom while his Santa Cruz trial was on.

Kopper Kettle Wins Two At S.J.

This Friday evening the Kopper Kettle team plays the strong Lico's Market squad of Campbell at Los Gatos.

For the Moorpark school an extension of Thornton Way has been approved. This will run north along the eastern side of the Moorpark school site. Maywood Ave. will run westward to meet Thornton Way.

D. Herschbach Wins Camp Trip

Dudley Herschbach, son of Mr and Mrs. Robert Herschbach, Rincon Ave., was one of the six Boy Scouts in the county to win a trip to summer camp with all expenses paid. He and the other five boys were grand prize winners in the National Boy Scout Citizenship essay contest.

Other winners were Philip Analone, Los Gatos; Cy Reed San Jose; Frank Shepherd, Saratoga; Noel Whaley, San Jose, and Terry Worden, Saratoga.

Summer Recreation Program To Include Swimming Lessons

The Recreation program of the Coordinating Council will be greatly stimulated in its early stages because the group has been able to arrange for swimming instruction in connection with the San Jose recreation department and school department. The Woodrow Wilson swimming pool has been reserved for two hours daily in order to take care of those children in this area who are anxious to learn to swim.

Si Simoni, director of the Wilson pool, has cooperated to a great extent in order to facilitate the local program.

Any younster in this area wishing to participate in the program should contact Art Tindall at Campbell 2189. The cost to each individual will be $2.25 for a two week period which will include six hours of instruction and recreational swimming.

A competent instructor will be available at the pool for each of the sessions. The daily hours will be from 9 to 10 and 1 to 2. Just which group will be going at which hour, has not yet been definitely announced. This will be announced when the sign-up is more complete.

In order to participate, a youngster must be signed up, because there has to be a limit on the size of the classes. The time allotted for the Campbell High School district is enough to accommodate about four fairly large groups, but it will be a case of first come, first served. Later periods are to be arranged, however so that if a youngster misses out on the first period it will be possible to sign up for a later time.

Through the courtesy of the board of trustees of the Campbell Grammar school, transportation will be furnished by the school buses which will pick up the children and return them.

Plans are progressing nicely for the establishment of the five play areas of the district. The sign-up of mothers in the various areas is not complete, and any mother wishing to serve for one-half day per week during any portion of the summer may sign up by contacting Tindall.

The director wishes to stress the point that a program will be arranged by the paid workers in charge of the program so that anyone serving in a supervisory capacity will not be expected to originate new ideas if they do not care to.

Success of the program depends to a great extent on the persons who are willing to undertake the job of supervising these play spots. Included in the summer plans are play days, baseball leagues, folk dancing instruction, dramatic presentations, and pet and hobby shows.

HIGH SCHOOL AGE CENTER

Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the high school canteen a meeting of some of the high school student leaders will be held in order to determine just what will be needed in the way of a recreation center for the high school young people for the summer months.

Peabody Addresses Chamber Members

At yesterday's Chamber of Commerce luncheon which marked a membership of 101, Patrick H. Peabody, publisher of The Campbell Press and three other valley papers, told members and their guests of the functions of a Chamber of Commerce in the community.

As an ex-president of the Sunnyvale Chamber of Commerce he traced the growth of that group from a re-organized beginning to its present place as one of the strongest chambers in the valley.

For the growth of the Campbell Chamber he suggested a program with projects of interest to all, a full-time paid secretary, a raising of dues, the necessity of having members from all walks of life, strong newspaper support and incorporation of the group to give it permanency.

He also advocated the backing of incorporation for the town by the Chamber in order that Campbell will not be at the mercy of a group of men who do not live here for all decisions affecting its welfare.

"Particularly important," said Peabody, "is a group such as this during the transition period through which Campbell is going. A Chamber of Commerce can be a strong representative during these changes."

New members who have recently affiliated with the Chamber are:

Mark Tusup, John Fischer, Hugh Nelson, O. C. Jepsen, William Rapson, Emory A. Garrison, Frank Cisternino, Tony Bakich, Nicholas Nanassy and Standard Oil Co.

Moreland Notes

By Donna Montmorency

Saturday dawned clear and warm. The Moreland bus driven by Mr. Brown and full of eager pupils set out over the mountains for Sea Cliff state park at 8 a.m. When we arrived everybody made a bee-line for the ocean, even though the sky was slightly overcast until 10 o'clock.

Later the group played games under the supervision of Mrs. Gibson. At 12 o'clock a hearty lunch consisting of hot dogs, potato chips, potato and macaroni salads, cakes and soda pop was enjoyed.

In the afternoon all went to the Board Walk and enjoyed the concessions. A few suffered some wild rides on the octopus. Quite a few pupils won prizes. The girls were disappointed in the boys because they spent most of their time at contests and darts.

At 5 o'clock the return trip started and all were tired but happy and full of candied apples, snow cones and popcorn.

HISTORY OF CAMPBELL

5.—EXPORATION OF THE COAST

Spain and Portugal, the two great naval powers of the 15th century, were both looking for trade routes to the riches of India and China. The Portugese, turning south and east, rounded the Cape of Good Hope; Columbus for Spain, believing the world to be round, turned directly west seeking a new and shorter route. The Portugese navigators brought back silks, spices and jewels; Columbus returned only with a menagerie of strange birds, beasts and Indians.

The disappointed Spanish king decided to send future ships to the east also, but was blocked by the Portugese claims to all the eastern seas. The dispute was finally submitted to Pope Alexander VI for arbitration. With the wisdom of Solomon he cut the world in half. giving all the East to Portugal and the West to Spain.

There was consequently nothing for Spain to do but turn west. Cortez in 1519 unexpectedly discovered the gold of the Aztecs in Mexico, and Pizarro in 1530 the wealth of the Incas in Peru. Finally east met west in the Philippines and the quarrel for naval supremacy was renewed.

After finding such surprising riches in the new world, the Spaniards were ready to believe any romance. There were the fabulously rich "seven cities of Cibola," the "fountain of youth" of Florida, the "Eldorado" of the Orinoco and the "Island of California," glittering with gold and pearls. All were beckoning with promises of more easy loot. Then there were the mythical "Straits of Anian," a direct sea passage through America to the Orient. Coronado in 1540 exploded the myth of the riches of Cibola and mapped New Mexico; Ponce de Leon failed to find the fountain of youth but explored Florida; Mendoza in 1533 lost his life in the discovery of Lower California.

Cabrillo in June, 1542, sailed from Navidad on the western coast of Mexico in search of the straits of Anian. Heading north, he discovered San Diego harbor, Santa Catalina Island and the bays of San Pedro and Santa Monica. He next passed through the Santa Barbara Channel, discovered the island of Santa Cruz, and continued north to Point Conception and Monterey Bay. Here heavy seas prevented a landing and so he kept on to the north, reaching finally a latitude just short of Cape Medocino. Then, discouraged by numerous storms and cold weather, he returned in November to the island of San Miguel off Santa Barbara. There he planned to winter and renew the northern exploration the following year; but he broke his arm and died from the unskillful treatment of his surgeon. Ferrolo, Cabrillo's successor in command, heading north again the following February, discovered Cape Mendocino and the southern Oregon coast. Then a storm drove him out to sea and he turned back to Mexico.

When England saw Portugal and Spain becoming wealthy as a result of their trade and plunder, she decided to go out also for a share. Since she had been given no part of the seas, her buccaneers adopted the method of capturing the Spanish galleons laden with their ill-gotten spoils from the new world.

Most daring and successful of these pirates was Sir Frances Drake. In 1577 he left England with five small vessels, sailed west, and passed through the Strait of Magellan. Severe storms so racked his small ships that three of them turned back. The remaining two were separated in a storm, and one was never heard from again. In his last ship, the "Golden Hind," Drake sailed up the coast of Chile in search of unsuspecting Spanish craft. One he found, virtually unmanned, lying at anchor and laden with gold bricks and silver. He took the treasure as ballast for his own ship and went on overhauling other ships as he sailed north.

Finally, having as much loot as he thought expedient to carry, he began to think of home and England. He dared not, however, return as he had come for fear of the enraged Spaniards. Consequently he continued to the north, hoping to find the mythical straits of Anian. But like Cabrillo he encountered storms and such cold weather that he was compelled to turn back. Then his vessel sprang a leak and he put into what is now called Drake's Bay for repairs. The men unloaded the 100-ton ship and hauled it up on the beach. The chests of gold, silver and precious stones had a weight of nearly thirty tons and an estimated value of close to a million dollars. These were piled upon the sand within a protecting circle of tents.

Thus Sir Francis Drake was the first European to set foot in the San Francisco region. The seamen soon found themselves surrounded by Indians, who proved friendly enough and who came in greater numbers each day to watch the visitors. One day a tall Indian, adorned in head feathers and skins, appeared with a retinue of followers. He made a long oration in his native tongue, and Drake answered solemnly in English. The Indians very apparently regarded the Englishmen as supernatural beings. Drake ordered his chaplain to conduct services in the manner of the Church of England to show the Indians that the true God was above them all. The natives probably missed the import of the lesson, but were delighted with the hymns, and begged for more.

On another day the Indians placed upon Drake a headdress of feathers, which he considered a crown, and interpreted the act as an expression of allegiance to the Queen of England. As the ship repairs went on, lame and sick Indians began to arrive for magical treatment. The sailors gave them such medicines as they had, and every day the number of suppliants grew.

Toward the end of their 36-day stay Drake and his crew made a trip inland from the beach. They saw large herds of fat deer and great numbers of "conies" (pocket gophers) which they described as having strange pouches for carrying food. The chronicler found the soil fruitful and pronounced the land a "goodly country." On departing they planted a post and nailed to it a sixpense and a brass plate engraved with the names of Drake and the Queen, and date of arrival. The treasure was then reloaded, fresh water and food placed aboard, annd the ship pushed into the water. The plate, after a lapse of some 365 years, was recently found near the shore.

The Indians were as much concerned at their departure as upon their arrival. They burst into wild lamentations, tore their cheeks with their fingernails, and followed the boat as far as possible along the shore. Finally they built a great fire, visible to the sailors until far out to sea. The Indians believed their dead occupied an island far out in the western ocean, and believed in their occasional return. It is probable that they regarded Drake and his crew as departed spirits returned for a time to their old haunts and then gone back to the island of the setting sun.

Drake paused at the Farallones to lay in a supply of seal meat and then sailed for England by way of the Cape of Good Hope. After an absence of nearly three years he arrived safely. He had circumnavigated the globe, had brought home great treasure, and so became the most celebrated hero of the day.

As commerce with the Orient increased, the King of Spain ordered that the Pacific coast be explored for suitable harbors. Ships from Manila, ridden with scurvy, often reached the mainland badly in need of fresh food and repairs. In 1594 Cermino was given the commission to explore the coast, but his ship was wrecked before he accomplished anything.

Two years later Sabastian Viscaino was commissioned for the same undertaking and to fish for pearls in the Gulf of California. He returned after the loss of his flagship with neither pearls nor the credit of new discoveries. He immediately applied for $35,000 and supplies of powder, lead, wine and trinkets for Indian trade with which to continue the task. The failure of his first voyage was not a very good recommendation, and the viceroy hesitated. In 1602, however, permission granted, Viscaino sailed forth from Acapulco in search of harbors and bays. As he proceded up the coast he gave new names to all the islands previously discovered by Cabrillo. He passed through the Santa Barbara channel and on December 10, 1602, anchored in Monterey Bay.

In a letter to the King of Spain he decribed the bay as sheltered from all winds and as commodious as the Bay of Cadiz. There were pines to the water's edge, oaks and vines. There was game: rabbits, hares, deer larger than cows, bear and bison. The climate was genial, the soil fertile and the plant growth luxuriant. The Indians were described as peacable and docile and of gentle disposition. They were of good stature and fair complexion, the women somewhat less in size than the men and of pleasing countenance. Their clothing was of the skins of sea wolves, better tanned and dressed than the hides of Castile. Their fishing and rabbit nets were of hemp and cotton. Their boats, paddled sometimes by as many as 28 men, were made of pine and dextrously handled even in storms. They knew of gold and silver from the interior. They ate game and a variety of seeds.

At the end of a fortnight the anchors were weighed and the voyage to the north resumed. Viscaino, although in search of harbors, missed San Francisco Bay altogether. One of his ships, blown north by a storm, discovered the mouth of the Columbia river and mistook it for the fabled Straits of Anian. The other turned back to Cape Blanco, Oregon.

The glowing description of Monterey will be recognized as somewhat inaccurate and exaggerated, but there is no doubt that his enthusiasm was real. He went all the way to Spain to petition King Philip for funds to colonize the port. The king gave his consent, but Viscaino died before the scheme could be executed and so it came to naught.

Settlement To Be Given Indians

In 1851 and 1852 agents of the U .S. government made certain treaties with the Indians of California to compensate them for lands that they had lost through possession by the white settlers. These treaties were never ratified by Congress although signed in good faith by both the agents and Indians. They were filed in Washington and were not discovered until 1922.

In the treaties the Indians were awarded 75,000,000 acres of California lands. Suit for the settlement of these claims was instituted by the Attorney General of California some five years ago. Judgment was in favor of the Indians and a settlement of $5,240,000 was made in 1945. This amount was for only a small portion of the total acreage which is now credited to the California Indians.

According to the agreement with the attorney general and the Interior Department, which is now custodian of the money, this award can only be used for charity, health and education. At a recent convention of the California Indians at Sacramento it was agreed that a request would be made to the interior department to pro-rate this sum as difficulties were foreseen in attempting to administer this money for the purpose stated.

If this should meet with the approval of all concerned payment then would be made upon the census made of 1928 for California Indians up to and including one-eighth Indian blood.

Further suit to settle the balance of the acreage upon a $1.25 per acre basis is to be started by private attorneys some time this year. The total amount of this suit will be for $90,000,000. This must be completed within the next three years as a statute of limitation of five years was agreed upon at the time of the initial settlement.

In order to carry these claims to a successful conclusion it will be necessary for all persons with one-eighth California Indian blood or more to register their approval for continuance of this suit by private attorneys by signing certain papers to be notarized. Ernest W. Risling of 1030 Guinda St., Palo Alto, Calif., is the representative for both Santa Clara and San Mateo counties. Any person with California Indian blood should contact him as soon as possible.

CONTENTMENT

Is life worth the living? you ask me;
And how can you ask me that, pray?
With warm life pulsing about you,
And your loved ones near you today.

You complain that you have no money!
Well! In poverty, where is the sting?
With a wealth of contented spirit,
I am rich as any king.

"The world is full of trouble
That will last 'til life is done,"
A smile, dear heart, will melt it,
As dew, before the sun.

With a wealth of contented spirit,
And God's blue sky above,
How can you doubt for a moment
That God is infinite Love.

Enjoy your life to the fullest,
Forget all things that are sad,
Forget the cares and sorrows,
Just remember to be glad!

Campbell Court Notes

By Judge Blaine

Five drunk driving cases from May 29 to June 11 made a Campbell court record.

Two of these drivers worked for "soulless" corporations and were afraid that if their employers learned of the incidents they might lose their jobs.

One driver was lucky enough to be working for a very human farmer who not only loaned $100 to pay on the fine but waited an hour and 20 minutes for his hired man to be brought from jail. This defendant had worked for the same farmer nine years.

Circumstances of his arrest were a little amusing. The officers' report said, "While we were patrolling we were stopped for Hamilton Ave. and San Jose-Los Gatos road arterial intersection when this man made a wide turn into Hamilton and nearly took off our left fender. We turned, followed, and observed his driving to be very erratic. So we arrested him and took him before a doctor, who pronounced him under the influence."

The doctor reported: "Admits 2 beers. Alcoholic breath. Eyes blood shot. Pupils mild dilation. Cannot walk a straight line. Cannot stand on one leg." There was more about the test, but you'd have to be a medical man to read it. (In general, the better the doctor the worse the hand writing). The report concluded, "Under the influence of alcohol."

Two beers are standard. A very old joke has it that the average drinker only counts the first one and the last one.

One driver had gone to sleep at the whel and hit a tree. An interested crowd had stopped to offer aid or advice. Some of the advice had not been appreciated, an argument developed, an offended woman had poked the "hero" twice in the face, he had squared off to fight her husband when the highway patrol arrived. In jail a doctor had pronounced defendant moderately intoxicated. Because he was only moderately intoxicated a drunk-driving charge made him immoderately perturbed.

P.S.—A sixth drunk-driving case was brought on Friday the 13th; that of a very frank man. He admited "3 or 4 beers."

The northwestern coast range area or California comprises approximately 10.4 per cent of the state.

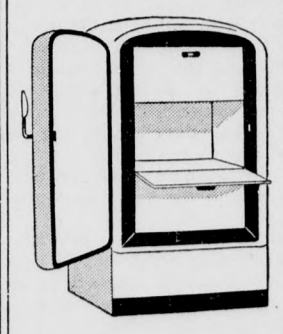
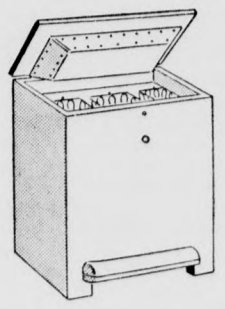
Your New ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR
. . . how to select it!

SOON you will be able to get delivery on the particular make and style of electric refrigerator you have been waiting for. But regardless of what refrigerator you buy there is ONE MOST IMPORTANT question you should ask. That question is—"What size should I buy?" • To fit the size of electric refrigerator to your family's needs follow these simple rules. First of all, allow 2 cubic feet for each member of the family—an 8-cubic-foot refrigerator for four. Allow more room, too, if you have several children who need lots of milk. If you eat three meals a day at home or entertain quite a bit, that also calls for plenty of space. Finally, remember your old refrigerator which did not have that extra space for a watermelon or the turkey carcass. • You will find that the new refrigerators in larger sizes give you greater value, greater usability and lower operating cost.





Remember the first frozen food you tried? It was probably a package of peas and you exclaimed with delight when you saw their garden-green color and later enjoyed the garden-fresh flavor. Today there are dozens of fine frozen foods and many more delights are yet to come. You will be buying them. You will be freezing your own fruits and vegetables. Right now you can see many fine home freezers on display in stores. Plan to buy and use one in your home this year.

Campbell Bride To Make Home In S. J.

Now at home in San Jose are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Henricques following a wedding trip to Reno, Los Angeles and Santa Barbara. The bride is the former Miss Bernice Furtado, daughter of Mrs. Marian M. Furtado and the late Antone Furtado of Campbell. After graduating from Campbell Union High school Mrs. Henricques attended a secretarial school.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Henricques of San Jose and attended San Jose Technical High school before entering the U.S. Army in which he served for three years.

The double ring ceremony which united the young people was held at St. Martin's church and conducted by Rev. John Clogher before an altar banked with white gladioli.

Given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Furtado, the bride wore a gown of white satin with fitted bodice and sweetheart neckline. Her full skirt ended in a train and her finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms trimmed with a lace inset halo. Her flowers were cymbinian orchids and bouvardia clustered about a white orchid. Her only jewelry consisted of the bridegroom's gift of matching earrings and pearl necklace.

Honor attendant was the bride's sister, Mrs. John E. Vierra, and the bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Rodericks and Miss Helen Lopes, all gowned in white marquisette with matching open crowned head pieces. Mrs. Vierra carried American Beauty rosebuds and the and later attended a reception at bridesmaids held bouquets of pink-orchid rosebuds.

John F. Vierra served as best man and ushers were Robert Seimas, Gielbert Furtado, Raymond Rodericks and Alvin Pedro.

Miss Ruth Cousins sang "Ave Maria" accompanied on the organ by Mrs. James McKay.

For the occasion the bride's mother chose an aqua crepe dress with black accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of white butterfly orchids. Mrs. Henricques, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a green dressmaker suit set off by white and black accessories and complemented by a corsage of yellow butterfly orchids.

Members of the families enjoyed a dinner at the Napoli Cafe immediately following the ceremony and later attended a reception at the De Anza Hotel for more than 250 guests.

Your First Porch Supper

By BETTY BARCLAY

When the "gypsy-in-you" calls and warmer evenings inspire in you a desire for that first out-of-door supper, plan a truly satisfying menu.

Here are recipes for a couple of economical dishes that may be served for the porch or lawn meal. Another good feature is that if a sudden shower threatens your outside enjoyment, you'll find the following menu and suggestions equally good for an indoor meal.

Menu

Lamb Stew
Salad of Mixed Greens
with Cheese Dressing
Rye Bread slices with garlic butter
(toasted on the grill)
Rhubarb Toasties Betty
Coffee — Tea (Hot or Iced)

Lamb Stew

3 pounds lamb for stew, cut in 2-inch pieces
6 to 8 small onions
½ cup sliced carrots
2 cups diced potatoes
½ cup peas
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons uncooked wheat-meal

Brown meat in hot kettle. Add water just to cover and simmer, tightly covered, about 1 hour. Add vegetables, salt, and pepper, and continue cooking gently 45 minutes. Then add cereal and boil gently 3 to 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Rhubarb Toasties Betty

1 pound (3 cups) rhubarb, cut in ½-inch pieces
½ cup strawberry jam
¾ cup finely crushed corn toasties
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Cook rhubarb in small amount of water until just tender. Drain. Add jam to drained rhubarb and place in greased baking dish. Sprinkle toasties over fruit; then sprinkle top with melted butter. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15 minutes, or until browned. Serve warm with cream or custard sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

DREW PEARSON

TALKING TURKEY

Washington—Despite the $150,000,044 bundle we are putting on Turkey's doorstep, the Turks don't seem too interested in American good-will. It isn't supposed to be known, but President Inonu made three strong representations to the state department that Turkey didn't want the gift if it was to interfer with Turkish sovereignty.

During the war, however, Turkey seemed somewhat more concerned about U.S. opinion, which was a lucky break for about 30,000 Jews, Greeks, Armenians and other non-Turks who fell under the Varlik laws.

To raise a war-defense fund, the Turks passed a loose tax law — called the Varlik law — which permitted authorities to collect from Moslems at a very low rate and from non-Moslems at exorbitant rates.

Following this, thousands of non-Moslems were jailed when they failed to pay huge Varlik taxes. In some cases, non-Moslems were billed for twice the value of their property, with the result that a mere handful of non-Moslems paid about 80 per cent of the war funds raised. although they amounted to less than two per cent of the Turkish population.

In the end, an estimated total of 30,000 Jews and Christians went to concentration camps because they could not pay.

These unfortunates might still be languishing in concentration camps had not President Roosevelt decided to visit President Inonu of Turkey following the Teheran conference. Two days before that visit was to take place, in 1945. Inonu suddenly proclaimed the freedom of the "Varlik" prisoners. He wanted to avoid embarrassing questions.

PATENTS FOR NEXT YEAR

In the hurly-burly of congress a lot of things slip by that some newspapers don't catch and the public doesn't know about. But sometimes they affect the life of the nation for years to come.

One such vote occurred in the senate recently. It affected the future control of patents from government-paid scientific development.

Control of vital patents is one reason why the American people walked part of the time during the war instead of having ample tires. Standard Oil of New Jersey had conspired with the Germans before the war to withhold precious patents on synthetic rubber.

A similar control of patents was one reason why we couldn't ship enough planes to the Philippines to help General MacArthur after Pearl Harbor. The Aluminum Corporation of America had a deal with the Germans to bottle up use of magnesium in this country—and magnesium is vital to airplane manufacture.

Immediately after World War I there was considerable discussion of German patents and the importance of not letting Germany get a monopoly on war processes. Then, gradually, the public forgot, and 10 years later certain big companies arranged monopoly pools with Germany by which vital processes—such as synthetic rubber—were withheld from use.

So today it is important that the public doesn't forget a second time, and that history doesn't repeat.

To illustrate how important scientific patents are, perhaps the most potentially wealthy man in the U.S. is Dr Leo Szilard, the Hungarian - born scientist who made some of the basic discoveries on atomic energy. He has turned use of these patents over to the United States, but if he wanted to profit from them he could make millions.

Certain U. S. corporations, however, have not been so public-spirited. During the war the U. S. government spent the huge sum of two billion dollars on scientific research (not including atomic research) and about one-half of this will go to the permanent profit of big corporations.

QUICK ON THE DRAW

Said David Newton, White House correspondent and art critic, after inspecting President Truman's $10,000 collection of historic art: "Hanging is too good for them."

Quipped Gael Sullivan, democratic party boss, after hearing that another state had ratified the GOP's two-term limitation on the presidency: "The only thing wrong with the Republicans' two-term amendment is that they couldn't make it retroactive."

Events Over The Week-End Vary

Eager rodeo fans all over the state will want to trek to Salinas this week-end for the return of the California Rodeo after a protracted war-time absence. The Travel and Recreation department of the California State Chamber of Commerce reports that this 31st edition of the biggest rodeo in the state promises not only to maintain its high standard of western sportsmanship but to top all its earlier showings.

Other events seem to have bowed to Salinas this week with the list considerably smaller than on any previous week-end this summer.

There will be the Modesto Rangers and Polo club show June 21; Tulare Dairy Fiesta June 19-21; Summer Garden Tours beginning June 20 at Santa Barbara, Yacht club race at Newport Harbor June 21, Exhibition tennis at La Jolla June 21 and Father O'Donohue's Mission Rancho Horse Show at Lemon Grove June 22.

The Salinas California Rodeo—June 19 through 22—will be a western thriller .Events will get under way each day with a horse parade at 1 p.m. Over 1100 mounted riders with elaborate silver mounted outfits will parade their beautiful horses preceding the 2 p.m. daily start of the rodeo. Saturday night at 8 o'clock the Colmo del Rodeo Parade will precede the "Mardi Gras of the Rodeo." Reserved seats are available at the Salinas Chamber of Commerce.

The Tulare Dairy Fiesta will open Thursday with Tulare County 4-H Achievement day, and a Fiesta Queen Coronation ball that evening will feature Red Nichols orchestra. June 20 there'll be a dairy stock exhibition at the Tulare-King County Fairgrounds, and a San Joaquin league softball game.

At Lemon Grove, Father O'Donohue's Rancho Horse Show is sponsored by the Church of St. John of the Cross. Showing of fine Palomino horses, rodeo events, jumpers and show horse events are program features. First place awards will be 100 silver dollars in each event.

Friday The 13th Unlucky For Women Drivers

By Dudley Herschbach

The graduating class of Campbell High and many other people may have thought Friday the 13th was a good day, but the drivers of two cars returning home after the commencement feel differently.

Mrs. R. L. Allinger, driving west on Rincon Avenue, collided with a car driven by Mrs. Lois Plymale at the Milton Ave. intersection .Each car carried four or five passengers and neither could be driven immediately.

Mrs. Allinger's aunt complained of an arm injury and a small boy in the Plymale car was removed to a doctor's office for examination. Some delay ensued before a highway patrolman arrived on the scene. The stories told to the patrolman by the drivers are somewhat conflicting.

Mrs. Allinger said she was traveling at ont more than 30O or miles an hour and, as the sun was in her eyes, was unable to see the other car until it was too late. She claimed the car did not make an effort to stop for the intersection.

Mrs. Plymale's version was that Mrs. Allinger was going very fast and that she did make an effort to stop at the intersection. They also disagreed as to the exact spot of the collision.

To top off the "Friday the 13th" busines, it was Mrs. Allinger's birthday.

Time of the accident was 6:45.

A. F. Coyle Is Dinner Speaker

Albert F. Coyle, noted lecturer and consultant on international affairs, has been selected as the speaker for the annual dinner meeting of the Red Cross Wednesday, June 25, at the San Jose Elks club. Tickets for the affair open to all Red Cross contributors may be obtained from Mrs. Archie Keesling, chairman of the Campbell branch.

Coyle has visited the Soviet Union many times on business and economic missions. He served with the American forces in North Russia during World War I and was a prisoner of war of the Bolsheviks.

During the Nazi regime and before the outbreak of the second World war, Coyle is said to have obtained the release of more prisoners from Hitler's concentration camps than did any other American.

Coyle, a native of San Jose, will leave the states early in July to work with the Philippine government and American engineers in the reconstruction of the Philippine islands. He has served previously on such important American missions as the American Commission on Conditions in Ireland, and the All American Cooperative Commission.

International affairs and the work of the Red Cross abroad will be the subject of Coyle's talk at the annual meeting. Reservations for the dinner must be made in advance through Mrs. Keesling or the San Jose chapter headquarters, 440 North First street, San Jose.

T. B. Workers' Annual Dinner

Sixty members of the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis Association met last Tuesday night at the San Jose Country club for the association's annual dinner meeting. Miss Margaret Twombly, outgoing president, presided.

Miss Twombly summarized the past fiscal year's work, pointing out that 67 percent of the Christmas Seal sale funds which support the work of the suberculosis association, was spent for case-finding. Two public health nurses were furnished to health departments to do tuberculosis follow-up work, a central case-register for tuberculosis cases was established, and a second miniature X-ray unit delivered to be loaned to hospitals throughout the county for the X-raying of all admissions. Miss Twombly announced that this year the association will employ a health educator who will specialize in tuberculosis education, and work on a county-wide basis.

Dr. C. Gerald Scarborough, case-finding committee chairman, stated that the objective of this committee's program is to get as much of the population of Santa Clara county X-rayed in as short a time as possible. The association, he said, proposes to X-ray 40,000 persons during this current fiscal year which will represent one fifth of the total population.

Newly re-appointed chief of the bureau of tuberculosis state department of public health, Dr. Edward Kupka, was guest speaker. Speaking on new drugs being used in connection with the cure of tuberculosis, Dr. Kupka said: "In spite of recent scientific advances in the discovery of drugs for use in the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, the greatest emphasis must still be placed on more and more mass chest X-ray surveys by the use of mobile units, and more beds for the tuberculous." Streptomycin, he said, "can be used on a very limited number of cases, and very litle is known of its ultimate effectiveness and reliability."

Attend Kiwanis Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Ethan Lanphear and Mr. and Mrs. Budd Levenberg will leave next Thursday by train to attend the 32nd annual convention of Kiwanis International in Chicago which begins Sunday, June 29. They will travel in a special Kiwanis car which originates in Los Angeles. On the return trip they will come via the southern states, stopping in New Orleans.

Some 10,000 persons are expected to attend the five-day meeting, which will be based on the service administrative theme of the organization for this year, "Build For Peace — Patriotism—Opportunity."

The program will feature addresses by outstanding figures in American and Canadian public life, election of officers, club activity conferences, and the foremost in entertainment.

Special features have been planned for wives of Kiwanians in attendance, while a teen-age canteen will be established for boys and girls.

San Jose State Graduation To Be Held Friday

Five hundred and sixty-five graduates who completed degrees and credentials in December, March and June, or who will finish in August and September, will participate in Commencement exercises at San Jose State College Friday, June 20. Fourteen of these graduates claim Campbell as their home.

The traditional program will take place in the picturesque ivy-covered Quad on the campus at 4 o'clock. Awarding the diplomas will be Dr. Thomas W. MacQuarrie, college president, who will make the commencement address.

The Rev. Otis D. Ironmonger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Hayward, and father of Eleanor Evelyn Ironmonger of the graduating class, will read the prayer during the program.

Recognition for high scholarship and for outstanding achievement in various departments is given to graduating seniors with their diplomas. Thirty-two are graduating with great distinction, having highest scholarship ratings of 565 graduates. Topping this list is Alice Hunter Hoover, biological science major from Santa Cruz.

Campbell graduates include Carol Alicia Lantz, Victor Albert Robinson, Mary Louise Blair, Dorothy June Keesling, Richard Anthony Pimentel, David Todd Crawley, Jr. Alice Sterig Pelletaire, Arthur Stewart Wellington, Robert George Whitfield, Paul Laurentz Borg, Edwin Verdine Loudon, Allen Virgil Hardisty, Bud Hamlin Little and Marymargaret Condon.

Of these, Carol Lantz and Bude Little graduate with "distinction." This means they rank next highest to the 32 top scholars.

More Water For Tomatoes

Tomato growers should apply an extra six or eight acre-inches of water this year to make up the rainfall deficiencies, according to L. D. Doneen of the Division of Irrigation, College of Agriculture.

In most years, with normal rainfall, the soil is wetted to a depth of six feet or more, which gives a supply of water for the early part of the season. Supplying an additional 18 acre-inches of water by irrigation, an adequate moisture supply is maintained all year.

This year the soil is wet only to a depth of two or three feet. Tomato roots normally grow to a depth of six feet. Roots will not grow in dry soil. So it is necessary to wet the soil to the root depth. Irrigation water for this purpose can be applied any time now.

The tomato plant requires the most water when it is fully grown and during hot summer months. This means large quantities of water will be required from the middle of June to the end of September, with the peak use in July and August. It may be necessary to irrigate between pickings, partiiularly on the lighter sandy soils. On the heavier soils the moisture will probably be sufficient for the plant during the fruit picking if the soil is wet to a depth of six feet or more at the start of the harvest season.

Don't Feed Moths

This is the time of year according to Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, Mary Lou Saunders, to check all woolen garments that are to be stored for the summer. Be sure that they are not providing moths with food intsead of you with clothing next fall.

Miss Saunders says wool garments that are soiled should be brushed and if dry cleaning is to be done at home, gasoline must not be used. A commercial solvent based on Stoddard's Specifications is used and all cleaning must be done out of doors. Directions given in the Extension Service Circular, Dry Cleaning at Home, should be followed accurately.

Dry cleaning kills all forms of moths but does not make garments moth resistant. The way the clean garments have been cleaned commercially or at home and are to be stored the assistant home demonstration agent says a glass fruit jar is a perfect receptacle for small articles such as sweaters, scarfs, or socks. Another circular, Storage of Clothing, describes the care of clothing to prevent destruction by moths.

Of the total 100,000,000 acres in California, about 11,000,000 acres are classed as croplands.

Piano Recital Friday Evening

Tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, Mrs. Kathleen S. Bergeron will present her piano students in informal piano recital at the Country Woman's club.
